Lenovo seems to have all but confirmed the existence of the device. It's not just the next generation of smartphones coming by the way, but also a next generation of superphones. We'll be at CES in January to see what the company has to announce and we expect the next generation phones will be on display there. However, there are a few interesting tidbits we have on the other smartphones that are likely going to be announced at CES, and it's about dual cameras. We know the next generation of cameras will incorporate the BSI (backside illuminated) technology in them as opposed to CMOS (complementary metal-oxide-semiconductor 50b96ab0b6
